Q: What is a good Ubuntu-specific name for the "system restore" operation that backs up your data? Is there an Ubuntu-specific name for the "system restore" operation that backs up all your data in Ubuntu? A: It's called an image backup "Backup" can be used when the data that you want to be restored is not attached to your current system state and is unrelated to your files. For example, if you have a backup of your OS installation, you can reinstall Ubuntu and be back to your exact state of before you installed it. For non-OS related data, use the tar command to tar up your directories that you want to save; one command does the job for everything that you want to save. Note that restoring your OS image is not guaranteed to make your system the same as it was before your backup, but your data will be safe. Q: Arithmetic : $(x^2+1)^\frac{1}{2}=\frac{1}{2}(\sqrt{x+1}+\sqrt{x-1})$ Given that $x^2+1=2xy$, $x,y\in \mathbb{R}$, then $\color{blue}{\boxed{\frac{1}{2}(\sqrt{x+1}+\sqrt{x-1})=}}$ My attempt: $(x^2+1)^\frac{1}{2}=\frac{1}{2}(\sqrt{x+1}+\sqrt{x-1})$ $\implies \sqrt{x+1}+\sqrt{x-1}=x$ $\implies 2\sqrt{x+1}=2x+2$ How to proceed from here? A: Hint $$(x^2+1)^{1/2}=\sqrt{x^2+1}=\sqrt{(x+1)(x-1)}=\sqrt{x+1}+\sqrt{x-1}=\frac 12(\sqrt{x+1}+\sqrt{x-1})$$ Gov. What's New in the Adobe Photoshop?

After my older brother threw a pipe wrench through a window at my birth-parent's home in the early 1970s, I've felt a constant yearning for home ever since. My parents divorced and relocated to Massachusetts when I was just three and from then on it was just me and my dad. He was a truck driver, and though the family only lived in one place for most of my childhood, my parents made sure we had a good few moves with them in the breaks. One of the biggest surprises I remember of my childhood was when I was allowed to watch a Disney movie in the theater. I was eight at the time, and I recall being really emotional and shy when the lights went out for the film and the screen began to glow. The movie was "The Black Hole" (1979). It had a screenplay written by Leonard Maloney, long before I even existed. Some of the words in the title felt like metaphors for me, as if there were some kind of invisible, black hole sucking me away from my home. Looking back on it now, it's sort of hard to believe how much all the family-friendliness felt like a system of protection and a way for my parents to force me into adulthood. I'm a 27-year-old artist living in Rhode Island and I've begun to think of ways to escape the permanent state of migration that has burdened me throughout my life. In the first place, I've begun to compose images that allude to a sense of having found somewhere "home". It's too soon to look at the images in their completed state, but I have been working on them for about a year now. I've been spending a lot of time in a small Rhode Island city that is rural in some ways and has a population of about 150,000. In the city, you'll find service jobs, old buildings, and a rich architectural history. Outside the city, there's more of a sense of the geography and wilderness. I've been walking and riding bikes in the woods and through town, tracking which places are the center of my home. One of the places that feels like the center is a farm house owned by a friend of mine who I met through mutual friends. The house has a small yard with two apple trees and a swing. It has a small porch where some of my friends like to sit
